WE ARE PROUD TO SUPPORT

UCP Heartland

Dear Friends,

UCP Heartland and I are grateful for your support and tuning in this evening. I wish that we all could be together in person, enjoying each other's company, celebrating, and raising money for an extraordinary mission. Even though it is important for us to all be safe during this public health crisis, it does not mean we should not meet 2 out of 3 that I mentioned above. So, let's celebrate and raise a ton of money for UCP Heartland.

Our 68-year history is inspiring and should motivate all of us to carry on this incredible legacy. In 1953, a group of parents came together in the basement of a Brentwood Church to form a support group for not only themselves, but other families who were trying to navigate through questions, improve quality of life and tackle challenges they were dealing with by having a child with a disability. We have evolved and been transformative over the past 7 decades and we are indebted to so many people's work and support in the journey.

We are excited to write our next chapter and it starts with our mission of providing children and adults living with differing abilities the extraordinary care and support needed to thrive in school, in home, at work, and in the community. We believe focusing on a person's ability portrays a more accurate picture of a person's capabilities and not necessarily on the limitations of an individual. We are confident this philosophy will produce positive results for individuals we support in the future.

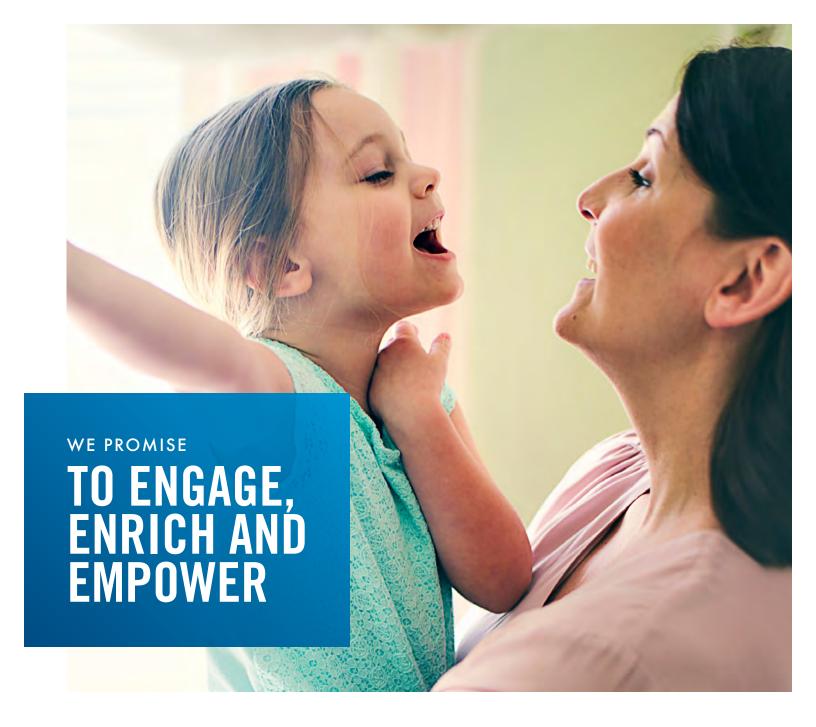

This year has been challenging for all of us, but it also has been inspiring to watch a group of people at UCP Heartland always keep the mission at the core of their work and step up in so many different ways to meet the needs of clients and families. You will hear and see some of these stories this evening. UCP Heartland employees are not only ESSENTIAL, they are HEROES and we all should be grateful.

Enjoy the evening!

Sincerely,

Clint Bolser, CEO

Improving the quality of life in our communities takes inspiration, perspiration and dedication. We're proud to support UCP Heartland and share their determination to make a difference.
